Engelsk — To Have i datid · B

Navn: _____

Dato: _____

i Sådan bøjer du to have i datid

I datid betyder to have havde. Det er nemt: I datid hedder det altid had, uanset hvem der havde noget. I nutid hedder det have eller has. Ord som yesterday, last week og ago viser, at det er datid.

had datid: bruges med alle: I had, she had, they had has kun nutid: he, she, it. Husk at skifte til had i datid

Hvem	Nutid	Datid	Dansk
I	have	had	jeg havde
you	have	had	du havde
he / she / it	has	had	han, hun, den havde
we	have	had	vi havde
you	have	had	I havde
they	have	had	de havde

1 Vælg den rigtige form og skriv den i feltet

opg. 1–12

1. Yesterday I _____ a bad day. (have / had)
2. Last week we _____ a test. (have / had)
3. Now she _____ a new bike. (has / had)
4. Last year Tom _____ long hair. (has / had)
5. Long ago my grandpa _____ a farm. (has / had)
6. Last night they _____ a lot of homework. (have / had)
7. Today I _____ a cold. (have / had)
8. Last summer we _____ a great holiday. (have / had)
9. Yesterday the dog _____ a bath. (has / had)
10. Last Monday you _____ football. (have / had)
11. Every day she _____ lunch at school. (has / had)
12. Two years ago they _____ a small car. (have / had)

Husk dette!

Spørg dig selv: Er det nu, eller er det sket? Nu = have / has. Sket = had.
Eksempel: Tom has a cold today. → Tom had a cold last week.

Engelsk — To Have i datid · B

Navn: _____

Dato: _____

2 Oversæt til dansk

engelsk → dansk

1. I had a sandwich for lunch.

2. My uncle had a boat.

3. We had a lot of fun.

4. She had a red dress.

5. They had a long day.

6. The dog had a big bone.

3 Oversæt til engelsk

dansk → engelsk

1. Jeg havde en hamster.

2. Vi havde fri i går.

3. Han havde en ny jakke.

4. De havde to katte.

5. Min mor havde en gammel bil.

6. Vi havde matematik i går.

Husk dette!

Når du oversætter havde, skal du altid bruge had, uanset hvem det handler om.
Eksempel: Min mor havde en bil → My mum had a car.